Security Guard Basic Training Programme [SGBTP]

Security Guards are the first line of defence against crime. With unpredictable situations, and terror on the rise, the guards are required to gain some basic knowledge on how to react in emergency situations. Additionally, different sectors in the corporate and industry require guards to behave and react accordingly. Ironically with about 5 million people in the security industry, 1.3 million more than India's police and armed forces combined, formal training to the Security guards has been missing till recent past.

India's Private Security Agencies Regulation Act, 2005 (PSARA), was created to improve private security standards in the country by issuing licenses to security companies. It also sets minimum standards for security guards, such as 160 hours of training before deployment. Private Security Agencies Regulation Act, 2005 (PSARA) has made it obligatory for the Private security agencies to impart formal training to its guards force.

3- Security & Safety Audit

Our skilled staff will do a thorough survey of the security and safety systems and procedures in vogue. Our recommendations on the survey and audit are implemented for ISO Quality Process Audit compliance. Requirement of security equipments CCTV IDS and Modern gadgets as well as safety Audits regarding Fire and Emergency Evacuation Procedures.

NISSM conducts' Security, Fire and Safety Audit for corporate and industrial houses as per the requirement of the individual corporate house. As the primary purpose of the audit will be to assess the effectiveness and efficiency of security measures and their compliance with prevailing Security Policy and Operational Standards.

NISSM believes that security in isolation is less effective than a holistic approach. That's why we recommend ensuring the effectiveness of your security program with NISSM Physical Security Audit of your entire operation.

Security Survey

A Security Survey is a thorough physical examination of a facility and its operations with respect to personnel and company assets. We examine the risks these assets are exposed to, and review the measures that are in place to protect them and to mitigate liability. We identify vulnerabilities and make recommendations on how these can be improved. This can be relevant for new locations or existing facilities, particularly after a loss or incident has occurred.

Security Audits

A Security Audit differs from a survey in that it is a process to assess whether an existing security system and procedures are operating to set of standards or criteria they were designed to. It evaluates the administration of the system, security awareness of employees, the management controls and compliance with standards. This is a valuable tool to give an accurate overview to the senior management.

Fire Audit

A comprehensive fire safety audit covers various aspects which are related to operation and maintenance of the facilities and even the review of inherent fire hazards associated with the normal day to day business operations. Therefore a team of experienced experts with the understanding of basic fire safety principles, fire safety audit technique are deployed to carry out fire safety audits.
